ARGENTINA MAKES SHARP REDUCTION IN U. S. PURCHASES

Implication Is Felt That Germany and Britain to Get Business

Buenos Aires, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Argentina ordered a sharp reduction in purchases from the United States today, and the implication was felt that Germany and Great Britain would get more of the business.

The announcement in morning newspapers by Pedro Gropo, minister of finance, appeared to have developed between the two richest American nations an open breach over trade—the base upon which United States Secretary of State Hull built the American good neighbor policy.

Gropo declared United States imports must be reduced to "the level of three or four years ago" because the imports far overbalanced United States purchases of Argentine goods.

The minister indicated Argentina could not accept a most-favored nation treaty offered by the United States but wanted a bi-lateral agreement to strike a trade balance—a treaty similar to that which Argentina already has with a number of European countries.

Cut of 40 Per Cent
A reduction of imports to previous levels would mean a cut of 40 per cent from 1938 figures or about $31,000,000.

Gropo's announcement was published as a half-page advertisement in morning newspapers. It insisted the reduction—to be effected by withholding import permits—was not discrimination on behalf of European countries but a necessity.

Britain, biggest investor in Argentina and her best customer, has been pressing Argentina to accept more British goods to maintain debt interest payments. Germany, dynamic third customer-seller, has been offering to take vast quantities of wheat and beef in barter for German-manufactured products.

NOT SURPRISED

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—American trade experts received without great surprise the news from Buenos Aires today that Argentina had decided to cut imports from the United States down to a level of three or four years ago.

Experts said this was in line with what Argentina had been doing for some months. No formal ruling had been issued, but as importers presented their requests for import permits they were being turned down.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Site of the 1940 national corn husking contest will be in the vicinity of Davenport, Ia., Wallace's Farmer and Iowa Homestead, one of the sponsors, announced today.

The national contest returns to Iowa next year for the third time since it was inaugurated in 1924 by Secretary Henry A. Wallace on a farm near Des Moines.

The 1939 contest will be held near Lawrence, Kas.

State High Court Suspends Three Chicago Lawyers

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Illinois Supreme Court today suspended three Chicago attorneys from law practice in the state for two years each after the Chicago Bar Association had charged them with paying portions of their fees to William H. Malone.

Those suspended were Thomas D. Huff, former Chicago surface lines attorney; John W. Ellis, and Frank L. Tuttle, both former attorneys for the Pullman company. The lawyers testified at the recent trial of Malone, in which he was convicted of income evasion, sentenced to two years in prison and fined $5,000.

The bar association charged the three paid portions of their fees to Malone "ostensibly as campaign contributions, but in fact as a method of bribing public officials by paying for favorable rulings on tax matters and for resulting tax reductions."

The court also suspended William G. Anderson, a Chicago lawyer, from the Illinois bar for three years for unprofessional conduct. Malone was former chairman of the Illinois state tax commission.

"LOUNGING BARN"

Kinston, N. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Dairy specialists at the Caswell training school here have decided music is not enough to keep the cows contented.

Soon the blue-blooded Holsteins will have a maternity ward and a "lounging barn." For some time soft music has been provided at milking time.

NOT WORTH WHILE

Kansas City, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Don't go fumbling around in a dish of oyster stew looking for pearls.

Frank Gardner Hale, jewel expert of the Boston Society of Arts & Crafts says it isn't worth while. "Nobody ever found a pearl of any consequence in an oyster stew or in a plate of oysters on half shell," he told a lecture audience here last night.

SHORTS TABOOED

Provincetown, Mass., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Irked by enactment of an "anti-shorts" ordinance, a group of Provincetown citizens today said they intend to force the arrest of high school basketball teams—both boys and girls—the next time they appear in uniform, in order to institute a test case.

The ordinance, adopted at town meeting Monday night, decreed that shorts in public places in this summer artists' haven must be covered by garments reaching "at least to the knees."

SPEAKER CAN'T SPEAK

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Being speaker of the Illinois House apparently isn't conducive to health.

Speaker Hugh W. Cross was absent yesterday due to an attack of influenza and Rep. Frederick W. Rennie (R-Buda) took over the gavel. Last night Rennie became ill and was removed to a hospital, also with flu.

Rep. Clinton Searle (R-Rock Island) was to be temporary presiding officer of the house today.

"PERSONAL ANGLE"

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Federal court officials got the "personal angle" on national economics in a land condemnation proceeding.

Asked Assistant District Attorney Gordon Grierson of a witness from southeast Arkansas:

"Have you heard any hunters shooting ducks in that tract since the depression?"

"What depression?"

"Do you mean to say you haven't heard of the government sending out all of those WPA and PWA checks?"

No, sir. I never got one."

Weather Flier, Missing Since Sunday, Appears in Idaho Today

Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Roy Shreck, Spokane weather flier, missing since early Sunday, walked into Coeur D'Alene today and announced he had been wandering three days and nights without food.

Shreck said he had crashed in heavy timber on a 5,000-foot ridge near Wolf Lodge, 25 miles east of here. He took the compass from the plane and started for Coeur D'Alene, through snow that at times was over his head, and in cold so intense he had to keep moving to prevent freezing. "I never slept more than half an hour at a time," he said, "it was too cold."

STATE SENATORS VOTE FOR JOINT EXPENSE PROBE

However House Threat to Kill Their Plan Delays Introduction

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Democrats in the Illinois legislature tried today to set up a rival legislative committee countering the Republican house inquiry into Governor Horner's administration.

Introduced by Senator Nicholas L. Hubbard (D-Mt. Pulaski) and quickly adopted last night by the Democratic senate, the new proposal was for a joint committee of seven senators under Democratic control and seven representatives, of whom a majority would be Republicans. The senate vote was 24 to 0, with Republicans refusing to participate.

Hubbard said this would be "a fact-finding investigation instead

Not Informed

Miami, Fla., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Governor Henry Horner's secretary said yesterday the Illinois chief executive would not be advised of action by the Illinois House ordering an investigation of state expenditures.

"We don't bring anything like that to the governor's attention," said John Casey, Horner's secretary.

Casey said that the governor's health was improved but that the date of his return to Springfield still was indefinite, depending upon his physician's recommendation. The governor has been in strict seclusion here since December.

Called "Smokescreen"
Branson claimed it was a "whitewash" and a "smokescreen set up against an honest investigation." To become operative the Hubbard proposal also would have to pass the house.

Senate Democratic leaders held a strategy meeting today and delayed sending the Hubbard resolution to the house because of the Republican threats to kill it.

One senate leader said a separate senate investigation, controlled by Democrats, might be instituted. Both houses recessed today until next Tuesday.

While legislators speculated over appointments by Speaker Hugh W. Cross to the house committee created through Branson's resolution, Branson himself said

Backwoodsman is 9th Victim of "The Tank"

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A poker-faced backwoodsman, John F. Williamson, died in Missouri's lethal gas chamber early today for the shotgun killing of a St. Genevieve county farmer.

William, ninth victim of "the tank," entered the chamber at 12:12 A. M. and was pronounced dead five minutes later.

Williamson, 58-year-old tie-hacker, was convicted of killing George Williams, a farmer, on Aug. 11, 1935. He previously had served 22 years of a life sentence at the southern Illinois penitentiary for the murder of a Marion county, Ill., farmer.

Jew-Baiting Hungarian Premier Finds He's Part Jewish, So He Quits Job

Budapest Cabinet to Follow Example of Leader

Budapest, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Premier Bela Imredy today announced the resignation of his cabinet. The resignation was accepted by Regent Nicholas Horthy who immediately summoned former minister of education Count Paul Teleki to a conference at the regent's palace.

It was believed Teleki would be asked to take over the premiership and form a new cabinet.

After resigning because of parliamentary opposition to his sweeping proposals for regulating Jews, Imredy afterwards startled his party members by announcing he had discovered that he himself was partly Jewish.

In a speech before colleagues of the party of National Unity whom he had persuaded to adopt his anti-Jewish program—which envisaged laws curtailing political rights of Jews, barring them from certain types of work and limiting their number in others—Imredy declared one of his great grandparents was born a Jew.

Reasoning Unchanged

"This fact, which only lately came to my attention, is one of the reasons why I felt myself obliged to retire as premier," said Imredy, who assumed the Hungarian premiership nine months ago. He had been accused of trying to introduce an authoritarian regime. Many legislators suspected that he intended to abolish parliament or greatly reduce its powers.

"I held, and still hold, that legislation for the regulation of Jewish participation in economic and cultural affairs of the country is a good thing for our fatherland," he said in a tired voice at a party meeting in the parliament building.

Under terms of the proposed anti-Jewish laws, which provide exemptions for many persons of mixed blood, Imredy would not be considered Jewish, but he told his party colleagues that "it is inconsistent that under such circumstances I should be identified with such legislation."

Called "Smokescreen"

Branson claimed it was a "whitewash" and a "smokescreen set up against an honest investigation." To become operative the Hubbard proposal also would have to pass the house.

Miami Beach Hotel is Held Up Early Today

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A band of holdup men invaded the Blackstone hotel before dawn today, tied up 10 persons and rifled safety deposit boxes in the office, police said, at least $5,000 in money and other valuables.

The robbers, numbering between three and five, trussed up five guests, the clerk, a bellboy and two housemen and then went to the basement to bind a baker working there.

Returning to the office they broke up the safety deposit boxes with chisels. They escaped in an automobile.

Some sources estimated the loot at between $150,000 and $200,000. The figure was obtained by the Miami Daily News from insurance investigators who declined to be quoted directly. Police Chief H. V. Yocum and hotel officials said, however, no estimate of the loss could be made pending a further check.

ADMINISTRATION FOREIGN POLICY DEBATE SUBJECT

Other Developments of Day in Congress Summarized by AP

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The House heard sales of warplanes to foreign nations defended today on the ground that "Americans are safe only so long as England and France stand."

Crackling debate over foreign policy involved in President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 defense program shattered the quiet which had marked the first day's discussion of legislation to authorize the Army's share of the program.

Rep. Gifford (R-Mass.) launched the attack on the airplane sales aboard with a declaration that the inference was "dreadfully plain" that the United States was going into an alliance "with somebody."

"Are we building these planes so England and France can get them?" Gifford asked, referring to the proposed construction of 3,032 new planes for the Army Air Corps.

The attack brought further attention to new French contracts for 415 warplanes, which increased to more than 1,200 the number of military aircraft ordered in this country by France and Great Britain in eight months.

Guam Kept in Plans

The House naval committee, meanwhile, by a vote of 14 to 5, rejected a move to eliminate the Pacific Island of Guam from the naval aviation authorization bill and then approved the measure authorizing $68,400,000 for new and expanded aviation bases.

Rep. Pace (D-Ga.), a member of the House military committee, told the House he thought it was sound to aid England and France build up their defenses because if those democracies fell before the dictators a major bulwark of the United States would be removed.

"Isn't it better to sell England and France planes for their defense?" he asked, "than to go to war with a big power to prevent encroachment on this hemisphere?"

Expressing his belief that Hitler is ready to "strike" to regain colonies lost during the World War, Pace asserted the reichsfuehrer was delaying his next move only to "complete his submarines to handle the British navy" and because of "fear of the United States."

Discussing the possibility of a German victory over France and Britain, Pace said the United States should not forget that such a victory might mean the cessation to Germany of the Isle of Bermuda.

Release of Ice-Locked Tugboat Expected Soon

Manistiquie, Mich., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Coast Guard cutter Antietam from Milwaukee was expected today to smash a channel through the ice and release the fishing tug Bob S., which has been ice-locked seven miles from the harbor since Monday with four men aboard.

On the tug are Mayor William Selman of Manistiquie and Rubin Peterson, Manning Popour and Percy Tuffnell, local fishermen.

Another fishing tug, the William Junior, approached within half a mile of the trapped tug this morning, then was stopped by the deep-iced ice-field. The crew of the William Junior said the men aboard the Bob S. apparently were not in distress.

The Bob S. had fuel and food sufficient for two days when it left Manistiquie Monday. The temperature was in the twenties today.

In An Emergency American Farmer Can Raise Coal on His Land

New York, Feb. 15.—In an emergency American farmers may grow the country's soft coal in their fields.

The fact that fairly good soft is now being made from sugars, the carbohydrates of farm crops, was reported today to the American Institute of Mining & Metallurgical Engineers by E. Berl, of the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

The sugar coal is too expensive to be practical but was made to settle an old controversy about the origin of coal and oil.

In the Carnegie laboratories the artificial coal is made in two ways. Sugar heated in water at high temperature produces a sandy form of coal.

When weak alkali is added to the water, Berl said, "excellent coaking coals" are the result. Adding pressure to the hot sugar water increases the amount of carbon in the man-made coal.

These farm product coals, Berl said, can be treated with hydrogen to make the same products which the Germans and English obtain from "hydrogenated" coal. These products include gasoline and oil for motor cars.

The old idea, said Berl, that coal came from the woody, or lignin, part of plants is as dead as the idea that petroleum is from dead fish. He said the Carnegie experiments show that coal, oil and bitumen all come from carbohydrates in plants.

Today Abroad

International News of Day Summarized by Associated Press

(By The Associated Press)
The Spanish war kept the spotlight of European attention today as insurgent Generalissimo Franco intensified his siege of Madrid and unconfirmed London reports said the British cabinet had approved formal diplomatic recognition of the Burgos government.

Prime Minister Chamberlain was said by reliable London sources to be planning recognition as a safeguard to lifelines of the British empire against German or Italian domination of a new Spanish state.

Insurgent guns bombarded Madrid's central quarter again last night for the third successive day.

A recommendation for strong forces of gunboats and seaplanes backed by fortified bases to strengthen French Indo-China from the possibility of either Japanese or Siamese attacks was placed before the French parliament.

Deputy Edouard Bousquet, vice chairman of the naval affairs committee, made the recommendation. French fears for their empire outpost have increased recently because of Japanese occupation of Hainan Island opposite the French Indo-China coast.

Premier Bela Imredy of Hungary, under fire because of his proposed legislation to curb Jews and accused of attempting to introduce an authoritarian regime in Hungary, resigned.

It was believed Regent Admiral Horthy would indicate faith in the parliamentary system anew now that Imredy has quit.

The United States policy of reciprocal trade agreements met a rebuff in Argentina, where the minister of finance announced purchases from the United States must be reduced sharply. It was implied that Britain and Germany would get more Argentine trade.

The minister said the reduction was necessary to wipe out an unfavorable trade balance with the United States and indicated Argentina would not accept a most-favored nation treaty such as those which form the basis of the present United States foreign trade policy.

Former Minister to China Passes Away

Altadena, Calif., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Charles R. Crane, minister to China in 1920 and 1921, died suddenly at his Palm Springs, Calif., winter home of pneumonia, relatives said here today. He was 80 years old.

A member of the prominent Chicago family and president of a plumbing supplies company, Crane was in ill health only a few days. His death came as a surprise to his sister here, Mrs. Kate Crane Gartz, who left immediately for Palm Springs.

She said he went to Palm Springs three months ago. Crane represented the diplomatic service in Turkey and Russia before President Woodrow Wilson appointed him minister to China.

Two daughters, Mrs. H. C. Bradley of Wisconsin, and Miss Frances Crane of New York, had a son, John, now in Italy, survive.

Rising Temperatures Predicted for Thursday

Chicago, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A new cold wave chilled the Middle West today with temperatures as low as 32 degrees below zero.

The sub-zero weather was centered today over the Dakotas, Minnesota, and Iowa, but was forecast to hit Michigan, Illinois and Indiana and Wisconsin tonight, Bemidji, Minn., shivered with 44 below last night.

Rising temperatures for the stricken areas were predicted for tomorrow.

A snow flurry accompanied the cold into Chicago today. The temperature which was at a high of 49 on Monday fell steadily to 17 at 10 A. M.

Temperature readings of 32 degrees below zero were taken at 6:30 A. M. at Moorhead, Minn., and Devils Lake, N. D.

Deputy Marshals Suspended After Federal Inquiry

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Two more deputy federal marshals were suspended today in a jury-tampering investigation which developed from trial of the alleged leaders in the capital's $2,000,000-a-year numbers racket.

Emmitt Warring, accused of being the racket's "brains," and his brothers, Charles and Leo, were charged with conspiracy to defraud the government of income taxes. Their first trial last fall resulted in a deadlocked jury.

Their second resulted in a mistrial last week when a deputy marshal, John B. Upperman, said he accepted money and liquor from Emmitt Warring's attorneys. Upperman and Emmitt Warring pleaded guilty to a contempt charge regarding the other two suspended deputies.

The two attorneys named by Upperman have denied his accusations and have withdrawn as the Warring's counsel.

Attorney General Murphy was said to be planning improvement in all federal marshals' staffs as a result of the disclosures. He may recommend that deputies be placed under civil service.

WILLIS CRABB IS SENTENCED TODAY IN PEORIA COURT

Former Delavan Banker Must Pay for Forgery And Mishandling

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Willis W. Crabb, a year ago a wealthy, mighty small-town banker, today heard himself sentenced to a federal penitentiary to pay for forgery and mishandling of bank funds approximating $75,000.

Sick, and broken by the swift tide of adversity unleashed when his pretty daughter-in-law was killed in his Delavan, Ill., mansion last March, the dapper ousted bank president was sentenced by Federal Judge J. Leroy Adair to two concurrent terms of four years each.

Crabb's attorneys pleaded nolo contendere, a surprise maneuver in which sworn testimony was waived and the judge was left to make his ruling upon statements of prosecution and defense attorneys.

Ruling on Co-Defendant

The former banker's co-defendant, James G. Bailey, a Delavan stock feeder and relative of the Crabb family, will be permitted to apply for probation under a similar plea, Judge Adair said, and the application will be granted if investigation showed he warranted it.

The ousted resident of the Tazewell County National Bank sat calmly in the front of the courtroom as attorneys stated the case to the judge. His attractive young second wife, Catherine, did not appear with him but watched the proceedings through a window.

Absent were his son, James, whose appeal from a conviction of perjury growing out of the shooting of his wife is pending; and his first wife, Elizabeth of Bloomington, who posted the $10,000 bond that gave Willis his freedom awaiting today's appearance.

Howard Doyle, United States district attorney, told Judge Adair investigation disclosed $40,000 or more was misappropriated by Crabb in fictitious chattel mortgages and that the banker also had forged three notes, one for $7,500 and two others totalling $10,050. The illegal practices started four years ago, Doyle added, and involved more than $75,000.

"He was a king of a little empire, the king could do no wrong, because he ran a one-man bank," Doyle said.

The money was used, Doyle continued, for speculative purposes and for cattle feeding with Bailey. Twenty thousand dollars was lost in 1936 or 1937, the prosecutor added.

Urges Consideration
E. E. Horton of Peoria, counsel for Crabb, told Judge Adair the defendant had been sick for four or five years and was entitled to consideration on that ground and because he sought to make restitution and "redress the wrongs charged."

"His acts were those of a desperate father seeking to protect a son who needed help," Horton said in asking leniency.

Doyle interposed to state the defense of James Crabb in his trials on charges of manslaughter and perjury cost about $6,000 whereas 12 times that amount was involved in the case against

ST. VALENTINE BROUGHT DEMS TINY LOVE BIT

Pro and Anti-Roosevelt Forces Not Harmon- ized at Confab

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—It was only a small gift of love that St. Valentine brought to the House Democrats. They left their "harmony meeting" without any perceptible answer to the problems which have beset them.

Some significance attaches to the fact it was necessary for them to meet to talk over ways of checking the Republican minority. There are three Democrats for every two Republicans in the House. If they were strongly united, they could run roughshod over the minority.

This is the first time in the six years of President Roosevelt's administration the Democrats have had any real opposition.

More than half the present House members have come to Congress since Roosevelt has been in the White House. Fewer than a third of the present members can date their service back to those stirring days, only seven or eight years ago, when Democrats held a five-vote margin in the House and it was something of a legislative achievement to get any sort of a bill through Congress.

Face Militant Opposition

That is the reason some of the Democratic leaders give for the easy-going attitude which quite a few of their followers have adopted toward putting their votes on the line. Two-thirds of the members cannot remember a time when the Democrats could not trounce all opposition with only half their members voting.

Now they are confronted by a mobile and militant Republican opposition. Its members stay on the floor. Whenever half the Democrats fail to show up for a vote, the majority party is licked.

But this is not the full explanation. It covers less than half the obvious facts. The party defections and disagreements that have shown up so plainly in the Senate have made themselves felt also in the House.

Operating, as the House does, under a heavy blanket of rules, it is better able to stifle arguments than in the Senate. In the Senate, the floor is under every member's feet, and any Senator with energy enough to rise is fairly free to talk. But the House has almost five times as many members as the Senate, and if any business is to be done, the talking must be held down.

Feel Two-Sided Pull

Yet, House Democrats feel keenly the two-sided pull that is being exerted on the party, by Roosevelt on the one side and by his opponents on the other. Some of these House members had to do some fast stepping to keep from being caught in the crossfire last year.

For the President's drive against some Senators and in support of others put House candidates in those states on the spot. They were urged to declare themselves either for or against Roosevelt's candidates. Many of those who managed to keep out of the fight themselves saw their own organizations divided on the issue of supporting the presidential choice.

Some of these men returned to Congress in an uncertain frame of mind.

GETTING READY FOR ROYALTY

Washington Awaits King and Queen

BY SIGRID ARNE
AP Feature Service Writer

Washington—The expected visit here this spring of the King and Queen of England looks like the biggest social event Washington has ever seen.

In years past presidents have entertained kings of small powers and princes of the larger ones. But never before has the Washington social set been promised an honest to goodness monarch and queen of a major power, and never before have reigning monarchs slept in the White House. The Britishers are taking pot luck with the Roosevelts.

You can't wait till the last minute to prepare for such visitors as the King and Queen of England. So, although Their Majesties aren't expected till June, Washington already is planning how to entertain them. This is the first of three stories telling what's up.

Pot luck is what it likely will seem to the royal guests. They could stroll all over the White House in 15 minutes. (In all probability they will never see the whole of that mausoleum they call home, Buckingham Palace.)

They will occupy two suites on the second floor of the White House, neither of which could compete with suites in New York's better hotels. The king and queen each will have a bedroom and bath and will share the Monroe room as a lounge. It was in the Monroe room the treaty with Spain was signed, and it was that room the cabinet used for meetings. Its long windows look down on the White House lawns. And certainly the upholstered chairs, heavy velvet drapes and gilt-framed mirrors should remind the visitors of their dear old great-grandmother, Victoria.

No. 1 Social Honor

They will breakfast in bed, if they wish. For the rest of their visit here they will be at the mercy of the State Department and the British embassy. One event is certain: a state dinner at the White House to which some 90 of the luckier and more illustrious social lights will be invited. And already deep schemes are afoot among the doers to wangle invitations to the event. Certainly such an invitation would be a gold seal on any social career.

This royal couple has been preceded here by their more spectacular brother, the present Duke of Windsor, and by their grandfather, Edward the Seventh. Both came here before they ascended the British throne.

HOME BUREAU POSTPONED

The regular monthly meeting of the Home Bureau has been postponed and will be held next Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 22, at 1:30 o'clock with Mrs. Hazel

Buchanan was president when Edward visited in 1860. The entertainment must have been pretty stiff for the gay prince because Buchanan thought dancing much below the dignity of the visit. However, his hostess was Harriet Lane, his young niece. She headed a party which took Edward by boat to Mt. Vernon, and the boat had no sooner shoved off than the young people had a minuet in full swing.

Years later when Wilson was president, and when he was confined to his bed, Edward's grandson, the present Duke of Windsor, visited. That was 1919. He went upstairs to Wilson's bedroom to chat, and leaning over Wilson's bed chuckled at the stories the President had collected about his grandfather's visit 59 years before.

That same year, 1919, the King and Queen of Belgium were here to pay respects for the part this country played in the World War. The king had been here as a prince in 1898 when he traveled informally as the Count de Rethy. His son, who also traveled as Count de Rethy, came in the 20's.

Hoovers Stiffly Formal

In 1931 the King and Queen of Siam visited. They stayed in the Larz Anderson home; Anderson had ambassador-in-the-Far East and his Washington home was on the royal scale, complete with art gallery and conservatory. The stiffest formality was observed by the Herbert Hoovers. On the first morning the Siamese pair paid a call at the White House and then rushed home to receive a call from guess whom? Why, from the Hoovers: a return visit which was all very royally proper.

But royal visits have not always been so stiff. Around 1790 Edward, the Duke of Kent, was here. That was shortly after the British had wrapped up their guns and gone home, so Edward was nervous enough to bring along food-tasters. He learned that Americans didn't feel bitterly enough to harm him, so he turned on Democracy-plus.

Trying to be democratic he stopped to ask a Yankee cobbler's wife for a glass of milk. The story is told in Daniel Thompson's history of Montpelier, Vermont. The Duke thanked the lady with a kiss, saying, "Now you can say you have been kissed by British royalty." Whereupon her husband rose from his bench, swung his foot and said, "And now you can say you have been booted by a Yankee cobbler."

Tomorrow: Eating at the White House.

Rosenkrans, Miss Symphon will present the lesson, "Standards in Family Meals." The minor lesson will be "Color in Accessories."

INCUMBENTS IN CITY ELECTIONS YESTERDAY WON

Little Interest Manifested In Most Polls Held in Illinois

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Incumbent city officials in most cases won renomination in scattered Illinois municipal primary elections yesterday.

Mayor John W. Kapp of Springfield, seeking a third term, ran well ahead in the capital's heavy voting. The total vote was estimated at 35,000. County Recorder Paul L. Weidenbacher will oppose Kapp in the election.

Danville voters renominated Mayor Frank P. Meyer. The mayor, who is president of the Illinois Municipal League, polled 4,176 votes to 3,623 for John L. Supply.

John R. Connors, supported by administration forces, and John M. Karnes, anti-administration candidate, were nominated for mayor in the East St. Louis non-partisan primary. Connors at present is city finance commissioner.

U. S. Student Beaten

John T. R. Godlewski, University of Illinois senior, failed of nomination for commissioner at East St. Louis. He charged during his campaign the city was "rotten" and needs a thorough going over such as youth, not age, could give it.

Willis J. Spaulding, a Springfield commissioner for 28 years, was renominated. He led a field of 35 for eight commissioner posts. Others nominated were Harry B. Luers and Joseph M. Figueira, incumbents; Percy Darling, J. A. Van Nattan, Ralph A. Guymon, Henry J. Busch, and Dr. C. Robert Fults, Sangamon county Republican chairman.

Springfield voters defeated a proposal to raise the school tax rate 25 cents to $1.50 per $100 of assessed valuation.

All incumbent aldermen who were candidates for re-election except one triumphed at Peoria. The voting there was light.

Light voting also prevailed at Urbana, where C. A. Moyer of the University of Illinois was unopposed for a Republican aldermanic nomination. A commerce college faculty man has been in the council for more than 25 years.

Quiet Elections

Four incumbents were among the eight nominated for commissioner at Danville. The nominees out of a field of 30 were Frank Coburn, Ray Cook, George Freeman and Claude T. Johnston, all incumbents, and Harry T. George, former sheriff; Elmer H. Brown, labor candidate; John J. Belton, former mayor, and John Lavezzi.

Little interest was manifest in balloting in communities where mayors have two more years to serve. Among these cities, where contests were confined to aldermen and other officers, were Aurora, Urbana, Freeport, Peoria, Bloomington, Galesburg, Zion, Berwyn and Cicero.

Winners of nominations yesterday will meet in the run-off elections April 4.

Most downstate cities will hold primaries on the same date as the Chicago primary, February 28.

Oil Executive Says
"Rule by Dictation" in Industry is Gone

Chicago, Feb. 15.—(AP)—C. R. Dooley of the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, New York, told industrial relations executives and authorities from virtually every industry in the nation today "the day has gone when management is ruled by dictation."

The oil company's industrial relations manager added: "That never was an efficient method anyway. Employees could always out-smart a tyrannical boss. Management by consent and through understanding is not only more efficient but it engenders harmony, peace and a maximum of cooperation whereby employees seek of their own volition to go beyond their instructions in carrying out the interests of the company."

Dooley's prepared address opened a three-day conference on industrial relations sponsored by the American management association.

THE STORY OF THE VATICAN A WORLD ON A ROMAN HILL

BY PAUL ROSS
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

On a Roman hill, on an area no bigger than a fair-sized American farm, sits the biggest little state on earth—The Vatican.

Almost 350,000,000 subjects of other nations give allegiance to this tiny spot, millions more are affected by it. Great governments bow before it, empires reckon with it. Uncounted wealth is administered by it. Colossal power lies within it.

Yet, day in and day out, it sits on its patch of land quietly, majestically, confidently. Its complex machinery, worn by the centuries, moves silently. Its pulsing life, bound by custom, flows smoothly. Its 1000 inhabitants toil in peace.

Soon a new Pontiff will reign over this historic realm. If he is guided by the routine of the late, beloved Pope Pius XI, this is what his life will be during a typical day inside the Vatican.

It is six in the morning but the Pope is already up. He has shaved himself with his American razor, dressed without the aid of his valet, perhaps taken a sun-ray treatment with one of the electrical gadgets in his bathroom.

Now he says Mass, and afterwards has his breakfast of coffee and rolls. By nine he has blessed a long line of genuflecting Vatican employees and officials and has taken his seat at his desk in the library to begin the day's audience.

The Pope's Secretary of State, who is also his foreign minister, gets the first audience. Then follow Vatican officials, church officials, distinguished laymen. Everybody genuflects before the Pope. Even his relatives would, should they visit him.

When these private and scheduled audiences are over the Pope emerges from his library to give a public audience to the crowd of worshippers that collects every day.

It is two in the afternoon when all this is finished. He returns to the library, receives the Master of the Household to arrange the audiences for the next day, then has his lunch. By custom he must sit under a canopy and eat by himself.

Meanwhile, what has been happening elsewhere in the Vatican? Over in the Belvedere Palace—a modern apartment house with heating, free electricity and modern plumbing—the Vatican's working population has risen and taken its place. There are painting and carpentry to be done, plumbing to be fixed, stores and a pharmacy to be operated, stenographic and clerical work to be finished, masonry to be repaired, machine shops to be manned, newspapers and church documents to be printed. The Vatican's postal, telephone, telegraph, radio and electric light systems have to be kept running.

Life is simple and secure here in Vatican City. A man gets between $50 and $60 a month but he pays no taxes and no rent and his food down at the general store costs about half of what it does outside. It is a pleasant, quiet place to live. His children go to school outside and come home to play on the basketball field or to roller-skate on the smooth pavements.

He has the little bar down the street where he can sip coffee made expressly for him from a fine Italian coffee machine. One can even get vermouth or marsala wine. If a man wants to see a movie or listen to an opera, he goes outside into Rome.

There are many other employees going about their business, too, on this typical day.

The famous Swiss Guards are on duty with their halberds. So are the six-foot Papal gendarmes with their swords and pistols, the Palatine Guards with their rifles and the Noble Guard with their swords. These are the remnants of the Pope's once-great armies.

Over in the tapestry factory, the patient nuns are repairing old tapestries and weaving new ones. Sometimes it takes the nuns three years to overhaul a tapestry.

If there was a great Church event, such as a canonization, in the offing, there would be a rush of activity today. The Chief of Vatican ceremonies, the Master of the Household, the Secretary of the Commission of Cardinals and the Governor of Vatican City would be conferring, planning the spectacle and studying old photographs.

Officials have to be instructed when to stand, when to arrive, what to wear. Tickets for the audience have to be printed. Lights and music must be arranged. Draperies must be hung. The tons and tons of stone, metal and wooden properties for these—the greatest shows on earth—must be carried out of the St. Peter's cellar and mounted.

But if this is an ordinary day, the Pope has finished resting after his lunch. He chooses one of his five richly-upholstered, silver-handled automobiles to carry him to the gardens. There he takes a vigorous stroll. By five he is back at work, giving more audiences, dictating to his secretaries, going over the business of the day, talking on his solid gold telephone, signing documents.

At eight he has his meager supper, and at nine is in his library reading. By ten-thirty he is usually in bed.

Servants close the doors to his apartment with great ceremony, make a search of the quarters by lantern although there are electric lights everywhere, two guards go on duty and everybody else goes to sleep.

Tomorrow: The modern Vatican that stands amidst ancient splendor.

NEW POPE WILL CARRY TREMENDOUS BURDENS

Death of Pius XI Centers Attention on Their Magnitude

New York, Feb. 15.—The Pontiff who ascends the throne in succession to Pius XI—the Pope of Peace—must assume an international burden so great that the world scarcely sensed its magnitude until the aged man who had carried it was forced to lay it down.

Recognition of the part played by His Holiness in the world's problems is seen in the fact that his death for the moment stilled the bitter wrangling that was going on between great European nations.

The shock made them quit talking war for a bit.

Recognition is seen too in the eager speculation in many capitals regarding the identity of the next Pope.

Amongst his problems, the new Pope will encounter several that have been bones of contention between the church and the Fascist state. Some of these involve policies which are both Fascist and German Nazi. Here are the chief issues:

Chief Issues

The Jewish question broke in Italy last July when fascism proclaimed its doctrine of race, affirming (as had the Nazis) the superiority of the Aryans and deprecating against intermixture with non-Aryan elements, such as Jews.

The church, declining to subscribe to any philosophy that erects barriers between races, took issue immediately with fascism, as it had with Herr Hitler's Aryan theories.

But that wasn't the half. Last fall new fascist laws were promulgated making marriages between Jews and Italian Aryans illegal. The Vatican claims that this violates the Concordat of 1929 which recognized church marriages as having the full force of civil ceremonies. The church maintains its right to marry whom it will.

Then there was the Fascist government's opposition to the Catholic action. This is a layman's organization aiming at educating the social, civic, moral and religious conscience of the Italian nation. The government said the Atlanta, Ga. —(AP)—Imagine a high school commencement with a talking movie substituted for speech making. To add excitement, let the movie be the senior class's own "production."

That was what the mid-term graduating class at Murphy Junior high school had for its commencement.

More than 50 members of the class spent three months in providing the acting, costumes, stage properties, music and camera work for their movie, "Lady of The Lake."

Federal figures show that 108 Illinois candy plants, employing 13,657 employees on a payroll totaling $13,625,578, produced $90,374,121 worth of confectionery products during the year, or nearly one-third of the nation's $305,839,262 supply.

New York state rated second with a $39,459,555 output; Pennsylvania $33,542,896; Massachusetts $30,626,213.

Americanism is an Unfailing Love of Country; Loyalty to its institutions and ideals; Eagerness to defend it against all enemies; Undivided Allegiance to the Flag; and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and posterity.

TWO AMERICAN PRESIDENTS

Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, whose birthday anniversaries are observed this month, provide a striking contrast which helps make the point that under the American tradition neither riches nor poverty create an insurmountable handicap.

Washington was one of the nation's wealthiest men; Lincoln was among the poorest. Washington had the advantage of all the culture money could buy; Lincoln taught himself with borrowed books and used a shingle for a slate. Washington was a shrewd military leader; Lincoln had to depend upon others to win battles in the field. Washington was imperious, proud, kingly; Lincoln was humble. Washington was a slave holder; Lincoln was opposed to slavery.

In other ways the two presidents were alike. Both were physical giants; each studied mathematics and could demonstrate a proposition in geometry; each was a surveyor, and each had held a commission in the United States army. Washington as a general and Lincoln as a captain here in Dixon.

In other ways the two were alike, and in other ways were opposites. Many will see, however, that they were alike in the ways that made them mental leaders. Lincoln deliberately studied mathematics, saying he did it so he could "demonstrate" a proposition. His speeches show mathematical reasoning. He never looked at the surface of a problem, and never worked on symptoms. He studied clear down to first causes and worked from that point, confident that when they were treated politically, the symptoms would disappear.

Both Lincoln and Washington were of English stock, although Washington savored of the First Families of Virginia, and Lincoln's family at one time might have been thought of as "po' whites." But the English character, the deep-plowed steadfastness of purpose, the Anglo-Saxon love of freedom was as effective in one as in the other.

Washington created the Union. Lincoln preserved it. With Lincoln the Union came first, and neither personal convictions nor friends nor half-baked advisers prevailed against his determination that the Union should be saved. Snubbed and abused by Stanton, Lincoln nevertheless appointed Stanton secretary of war because that would help save the Union. General McClellan was an aristocrat and looked with immense scorn upon the backwoods President. When Lincoln's friends urged him to put McClellan in his place, Lincoln said: "I would hold McClellan's horse if that would bring us victories."

How fortunate for us if we had either a Lincoln or a Washington today. Washington with his conviction against foreign alliances; Lincoln with his humility.

Washington: "As a very important source of strength and security, cherish public credit. One method of preserving it is to use it as sparingly as possible, avoiding occasions of expense . . . not ungenerously throwing upon posterity the burden which we ourselves ought to bear."

Lincoln: "I shall do nothing in malice. What I deal with is too vast for malicious dealing."

CHANGELESS CUSTOMS OF A CHURCH

Death of a pope always calls attention to some of the customs of the Catholic church which seem to stand changeless.

There is something substantial and rock-ribbed in a church so organized as result of centuries of development that it knows exactly what to do in every circumstance.

We know that the college of cardinals will assemble in the Vatican in the prescribed manner, and that members will remain there, sealed up, until they can agree upon a successor to Pope Pius. We hear of a tradition that when the assembled multitude see white smoke ascending from a chimney in the Vatican, it will be a sign that the new head of the church has been elected, because the ballots are being burned. These customs are surrounded by others, and are a part of a whole system that within generations is changeless.

The Catholic layman knows that although his government may change frequently either through orderly process or otherwise, his church will remain the same ancient institution, a rock of stability. His money may gain or lose in value; economic systems may be altered; wars may rage, but always and everywhere the church will continue its labors, comforting for the poor in heart and administering to those poor in goods.

Governments may outlaw the church, but as long as it has an organization it is capable of extending its blessing and offering up its prayers for those deprived of actual contact with the church's servants.

As head of the church the pope is the personification of all its power. In that role the late Pius was an admirable leader, respected on every hand for his strong character, and admired for his determination to carry on in the face of failing health. The cardinals who must find his equal have a hard task.

LACK OF CONFIDENCE

What does the President intend to do with increased armaments, once he gets them?

Are you worried that he may drag us into another war by trying to regulate Europe's affairs?

Have you noted less enthusiasm over the increased armament program—even among people who desire adequate national defense?

If so, that is a clue to what business has been complaining about for years. Business calls it "lack of confidence." All along business has known what the President has been trying to do about business, but has been in doubt as to why he wanted to do it.

Business is fearful lest the President wishes to establish an economic system radically different from the "American way." Common people have come to fear that if the President is given all he wants in the way of armaments, he will not use them primarily to defend our shores and our rights everywhere under international law, but will try to "police" Europe.

His assertions to the contrary have not been in accordance with his acts and some of his other statements.

Those who hesitate over the armament program now understand what "business" has been complaining of for years.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

THE CHARACTERS
Peter Mallone: Adventurous newspaper correspondent.
Petronella: His accomplished young sister.
Tony Lance: British agent, the man Petrel loves.

Yesterday: Demonstrations against the British bring the Mallones to Cairo, and Michael follows Petrel. He bumps into Tony Lance.

Chapter 25 ALMOST LEGENDARY

"People call her 'The Petrel,' Michael told Tony. 'Her brother is a special correspondent on your old rag, the News. Name, Peter Mallone. You may have met him? He's a fine sleuth for trouble. Or else they both are. No one quite knows how much success he owes to Petrel. Whenever anything is going to happen, he and she turn up a full month or so ahead of most other journalists. People who know them say, 'Hello, something is up. Do you know who this is? The Petrel?' They're nearly always right. It's certainly a good name for her." Tony Lance sat listening, his face averted from the lounge. Michael did not notice that he was tense with interest. He was too much occupied with watching Petronella, until the elevator closed its doors upon her. He turned to Tony, and went on.

"She started going around with him when he was a war correspondent; went everywhere with him; saw him through fantastic scrapes; she used to ride a motor cycle. Once in the Balkans, she carried one of his dispatches to the frontier, dressed as a peasant girl, telephoned it to his paper, and arrived back in time for dinner with the censor! Of course, the stories about her have grown like rolled snowballs, but she's the pluckiest thing I've ever met. It isn't as if she enjoyed danger. She doesn't need it. She's in love with some man who doesn't seem to come up to scratch. She adores her brother, and was made faithful."

"I told him, 'I know her, Mike. I've met her. Twice. She was very young. Then at a party you gave in your flat in London.' Michael looked startled, then curious.

"You didn't you say so before? Why, of course, I remember! You commandeered her and saw her to Victoria Station. That was before I realized she was out of the house. She was in a dress. I met her nearly two years later, in Rome, and fell flat for her. Tony, she's very sweet, a lovely person. Though she's sophisticated, she's childish, in some ways. That was why, last Christmas, she thought I'd landed her. She wanted to forget the other fellow. I thought she had. I was too sure of her, I let her get away. Now, we're just friends. Here they come. What did I say?"

Like flybouts, when the shutters fly up, showing the track, and the electric hare before them, five men rushed out of the lift, and threw themselves across the lounge. Tony recognized Masters, of the Echo, Tim Cooper, of the Express Mail, Peter, with his eager red head and blue eyes, and Petronella Mallone followed up the rear more slowly. Masters collided with a waiter, and sent two glasses flying. She apologized. Peter's lip sent a chair rolling on its side, and the contents of a lady's handbag spread themselves on the floor. He called back over his shoulder, "Terribly sorry!" Petrel helped recover the coins, powder, lipstick. She went into a corner of the lounge, and awakened a press photographer, who, camera at his side, dozed beneath a newspaper. She sent him stumbling off after them.

"You see?" smiled Michael. H stood up. "Excuse me, will you? They seem so excited, I think I'll just ask her what's up, and perhaps go along."

"Go ahead," Michael went to meet her.

"Shock Of My Life"
"Hello, Mike!" But even as she turned, she saw Tony Lance. Her hand went to the back of the nearest chair, and held it. She stood quite still, looking past Michael, straight into his eyes. For a moment, Tony thought she

Brain Twizzlers

I THINK YOUR UNCLE'S SISTER WAS RIGHT!

Have you ever known a person who insisted on speaking indirectly? One such a person had had habits of referring to everything and everyone in the third person, beating around the bush and taking a long time to get to the point. This person, upon one occasion in particular, was speaking of some of his family relations. After discussing various things about different members of the family he wound up the conversation by saying, "My uncle's sister says we're all crazy anyway." "Your uncle's sister?" inquired the man to whom he was talking, "why don't you call her your aunt and be done with it?" "But she isn't my aunt at all," the beater-around-the-bush said. Who could it have been?

Some Items Behind the News in National Capital Today

BY BRUCE CATTON

Dixon Evening Telegraph

Washington, Feb. 15.—Most people who go south in the winter time do it to get away from the cold. President Roosevelt apparently does it to get away from the heat.

Right now he is planning another southern cruise. Around the middle of February, it is announced, he will sail for the Caribbean for a 10-day or two weeks' stay to watch the U. S. fleet's maneuvers—and, possibly, to do a little fishing.

Now it just happens that the heat is on, politically, this winter. Congress has already given the President two sharp rebuffs; first by paring down the relief appropriation, and second by refusing to confirm his appointment of Judge Roberts. More trouble is in prospect on the immediate future. Some observers are predicting the stormiest session of the whole Roosevelt administration.

So right at the height of everything, Mr. Roosevelt decides to take himself a little southern trip. And if that looks like an odd thing for him to do, it can only be said that he has done the same thing before when the political gunfire got hot.

Shakedown Cruise
Last April, for instance, the heat was on. The reorganization bill had just been beaten in the House. A bitter fight was being waged over the wage-hour bill. Carter Glass had just opened fire on the spending program.

And just when things were stormiest, Mr. Roosevelt boarded the new cruiser Philadelphia and took a week's "shakedown cruise," with a bit of fishing on the side.

The previous fall had seen a similar session of Congress on the business recession had set in, a new farm bill was up for action, Congress was wrangling over tax revision and the A. F. of L. had just denounced the pending wage-hour bill. So late one November afternoon, Mr. Roosevelt took a train for Miami, where he boarded the presidential yacht Potomac for a week's fishing cruise.

In April of 1937 the story was similar. The court fight was at its hottest, and the congressional revolt which was to sink the court program was picking up steam; and off went Mr. Roosevelt on the Potomac for a two-week cruise in the Gulf of Mexico.

He took two deep water cruises in 1936, despite the fact that it was a presidential campaign year. Late in March he spent a couple of weeks in the water around Florida and the Bahamas on the yacht Potomac, after thrice postponing the trip because of disastrous floods in New England and Ohio.

And in mid-July he chartered the yacht Seawanna and went cruising along the coast of Maine with sons James, Franklin, Jr., and John. In a bay in Nova Scotia he went aboard the yacht Potomac and turned on the radio to hear Gov. Alfred M. Landon make his acceptance speech.

Ten-Day Leave
In the spring of 1935—to go back still further—newspaper headlines were explaining that Congress was "in revolt." FDR's relief bill was under heavy fire. He had just demanded the elimination of utility holding companies. Huey Long was conducting a brisk anti-Roosevelt fire. And away went Mr. Roosevelt, in the middle of it all, for a 10-day cruise off Florida and the Bahamas in Vincent Astor's yacht Nourmahal.

Almost exactly one year earlier, he had taken a similar trip on the same yacht. At that time there was danger of a big auto strike. The railway unions were also talking strike, and had rejected the proposals of the President.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Certainly, although it isn't as easy. In spite of all the "happy-forever-after" fal de rol, love has its ups and downs a bit like the thermometer; some days it is up in the nineties and some days down near the frost line, but if it has ever been real love it will soon swing back up to normal. After all, love is the steadiest and most dependable thing in the world and when it seems to be waning between two people who have ever been really in love, a vacation off to themselves or even a day at Coney Island or an extra bouquet of roses will set it going again.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes, the tendency is very, very strong for them to do so. Under the pressure of attorneys and of the court room audience—(witnesses ought to be examined quietly in private and not in public) most people become confused enough on moral issues to squirm and dodge and hunt for some loophole to keep from telling a damaging truth until they get into such a mental tangle the easiest way out is to lie their way out. Truthful people often do this when they fully intended to tell the truth.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. A Happiness Test by which one can estimate and compare his happiness with the general mine run of human beings has been devised by Dr. Goodwin Watson of Columbia University and he finds that there is not much difference in the Happiness Scores of the contented plodder and the go-getter. Happiness seems to be due to other phases of temperament and other mental and emotional habits than merely when one is a go-getter or a plodder.

dent's conciliator. The famous army-airmail tangle was awaiting settlement.

Congress was in a flutter over the charges of Dr. Wirt. The Wagner Act had just been introduced in the Senate, and President Roosevelt had just demanded a stock exchange bill "with teeth in it." But way he went for a fishing trip, in spite of everything.

Apparently it is an annual custom. Maybe it's one of the reasons why the strain of the presidential job doesn't get him down, and maybe it's ultra-smart politics—to pull out and go fishing for a while when the political heat is on. Whatever the answer, it seems to be part of the Roosevelt routine.

Budget Bill of U. of I. Sent To The Legislature

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The University of Illinois appropriation bill, which would provide $18,201,536 for operation during the next two fiscal years, was introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

Sponsors in the house were Everett R. Peters (R-St. Joseph), Charles W. Clabaugh (R-Champaign) and Tom M. Garman (D-Urbana), all representatives from the Champaign district.

The bill would provide $2,751,904 more than the current biennial appropriation.

Senator W. E. C. Clifford (D-Champaign) planned to introduce an identical bill in the senate this afternoon.

The bill introduced contained the figures approved Saturday in Chicago by the University board of trustees after it had rejected proposals to trim its budget further. The trustees said two cuts totaling $1,595,094 had been made from the original appropriation requests.

"Cut to Bone"
President A. C. Willard said after Friday's session: "The budget is now cut to the bone. Any further reductions might interfere seriously with the operation of the school."

The appropriation bill includes provision of $250,000 for a new men's dormitory. Other expenses anticipated in the bill for permanent improvements include an item of $1,675,000 for a new power and heating plant to replace the present 30-year-old system and $100,000 for fire protection and improvements in the chemistry building.

General improvements will account for another $200,000.

The itemized provisions of the appropriation bill were:

Salaries and wages, $8,935,000; office expense, $225,000; travel, $40,000; operation, $1,100,000; repairs and equipment, $1,085,000; permanent improvements, $2,225,000; reappropriated federal funds, $326,634; interest on endowment fund, $64,902; and university revolving fund, $4,200,000.

Frank McClanahan of Myers team topped the keggers at the Dixon Recreation bowling alleys last night when he rolled 222-182-198 for 602. Other fine games included those of Shaulis, 200; R. Baker, 212; R. Few, 214; Boston, 222; Suess, 201; H. Fordham, 211; Riddbauer, 213; Duffy, 201; Underwood, 201; Heckman, 209; Hoelscher, 205-218.

The Ogle county grade school tournament begins tomorrow at Rochelle with Forrester vs. Oregon at 1 p. m.; Kings vs. Byron at 1:55 p. m.; Polo vs. Rochelle at 3:30 p. m. and Mt. Morris vs. Monroe Center at 3:45 p. m. The semi-finals of the heavyweight group will be held on Friday afternoon. The first round of the lightweight division will also begin on Friday.

Ouch Department: The I. N. U. cage team went to Erie last night and something in the way of a defeat ended the score at 62 to 39 in favor of the Erie Merchants. According to Manager Cummings of the I. N. U., that Erie squad really has a ball team—appears he's right, too. A center by the name of Bare played on the Bradley team last year and is said to be 6-feet 6-inches and weighing 215 pounds wringing wet. Earl Flanagan of the local club scored 14 points, E. Callahan, eight; Bellows, six; Kerley, five; Rusk, two and Fane, four.

Commissioner Cal Tyler will again be one of the three judges in the finals of the Rockford Golden Gloves tournament tomorrow night.

The strong Belvidere high school quintet last night bowled over the Woodstock squad, 24 to 20. Houden, Belvidere star who was high scorer here last week in the Dixon-Belvidere tragedy, collected 12 points in last night's contest. The North Central reserves also won, 27 to 10.

The Industrial League will wind up the second of three rounds of play tonight at the high school gym as the I. N. U. and Knacks tangle in the first game and Borden and Reynolds meet for the second tilt. The program starts at 7:15—and there's plenty of room for you and your friends in the cheering section.

Clinton, Ia., high school last night trimmed Sterling Township, 37 to 17, on the losers' court. Bob Wolf, who will be remembered for his scoring ability in the Dixon-Sterling game of a couple of weeks ago, was the high point player for his crew with five tallies. Lund, high-scoring center for Clinton, made seven counters. The Illinois reserves trimmed the Iowa lightweights in the preliminary game, 17 to 13.

Amboy Township high school trounced Lee Center last night by a score of 33 to 15 when the two teams met at Lee Center. In the preliminary game the Amboy lightweights won 25 to 15.

At Sterling last night Rock Falls fell before the onslaught of Community high school, 38 to 22. It is Rock Falls' team which the Dixon Sharpshooters will face there on Saturday night. Community last night made 24 points in the last half while Rock Falls was held to 13. Curran and Beien each scored nine points for the winners while Lane scored an equal number for Rock Falls. Community also won the preliminary game, 22 to 21.

Next Tuesday night 25 bouts will be held at the Rochelle Township high school under the supervision of the Rochelle High School Physical Education club. The matches are scheduled to start at 7:15. Fighters matched for the evening's card include: Askvig, Johnson, Askeland, Krighbaum, Andrews, Haselton, E. Pearce, Jacobs, Eglund, Halverson, Schabacker, Kerchner, Fell, Jr. Pearce, Nelson, Vandrie, Frye, Loe, Milligan, Smardo, Baker, Young, Jacobson, Gulo, May, Gilbert, J. Tigan, Wilson, Vaughn, Ness, Harris, Kittleson, R. Campbell, L. Rittmeyer.

The schedule of the business and professional men's volleyball league has required some shuffling around due to bad weather last week and other unforeseen difficulties. Ben Schildberg announced this morning that a new schedule is now being arranged and will be distributed to the members soon. Last night the Tigers won two straight games from the Jaguars, 15-6 and 15-10. Those playing for the winners were: Rev. C. D. Nielsen, capt., Rev. L. W. Walter, A. Cron, H. Hartman and J. Blackburn. For the Jaguars: J. Noakes, capt., L. Olson, F. Keller, J. Mills, K. Platt, E. Barrowman and B. Schildberg.

At Byron last night the local team fell before the Stillman Valley invaders, 40 to 29 as the visitors moved from tie for second place in the Route 72 conference to a lone possession of that spot. Byron dropped from second to a tie with Ashton and Kirkland for third place. Byron won the lightweight game, 43 to 19.

Blind Student At The University Of Illinois Takes Up Wrestling

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The boys trying to make the freshman wrestling team at the University of Illinois don't pay undue attention to the tall dark haired fellow anymore; he's just one of them and considered a good fellow, too.

The casual spectator may think he moves through his practice routine with exaggerated slowness, but there is good reason. He's blind.

Art Lehde, 26, was graduated in 1931 from the Nashville, Ill., high school where he played football and basketball and captained the 1931 track team on which he ran the mile and threw the shot. In 1935 he suffered blindness in an automobile accident. A scholarship enabled him to enroll at the university where he is a liberal arts student with intentions of becoming a writer.

Inactivity was boring to the former athlete and he finally turned to wrestling after Varsity Wrestling Coach H. E. (Hek) Kenny saw him practicing with friends and urged him to try for the squad.

Progress is slow. Progress has been painfully slow. Lehde has had to literally feel his every move, but various members of the squad and Freshman Coach Al Sapora work out with him daily.

"Being blind in wrestling isn't as much of a handicap as it may seem," Kenny said. "Wrestling is largely a game of muscle sense and feel doesn't depend primarily on vision. There isn't time to see what's going on, so you have to feel out your moves. Lehde's biggest disadvantage, of course, will

BAY AND PIERRE ARE TO FIGHT IN ROCKFORD BOUTS

Golden Gloves Regional Finals Are Scheduled For 8 O'clock

Six boxers who survived the sectional of the Golden Gloves tournament here last week are scheduled to appear on the 16-bout card of the finals at Rockford tomorrow night.

Fight fans of Dixon are particularly interested in the careers of young Carl Bay and Nemoran Pierre, both of this city, who demonstrated their fight technique in three bouts here and in the semi-finals in Rockford last Thursday. On these two fighters Dixon is pinning hopes of entries in the Tournament of Champions to be held in Chicago February 27.

In addition to the success of Pierre and Bay, local followers of the tournament are backing four others who survived the sectional here. Included among them are Jimmy Forder of Sterling, Andy Duncan of Galesburg, Charles Fiorina of Rock Falls and Gene Eshelman of Sterling.

Championship Bouts

In the championship bouts at Rockford eight matches each are scheduled for the novice and open divisions which include classes for heavyweight, light heavyweight, middleweight, welterweight, lightweight, featherweight, bantamweight and flyweight. Bay is entered in the lightweight class of the novice division and will meet Art Madison of the Rockford sectional.

Young Pierre will meet Edwin Monroe of the Rockford sectional in the featherweight class of the novice division. Eshelman and Fiorina are both in the novice division and Forder and Duncan in the open.

Without a weak link in the card, the fans are expecting to see an evening's show packed with entertainment of the walloping variety. Every boy, with one or two exceptions, has met some stiff competition to get where he is today and no reach for the crown is going to be stopped without a scrap.

The fights are to be held at the Tebala Temple on North Main street and will start at 8:00 o'clock. Dixon fans may purchase their tickets at Earl James' billiard parlors.

SIX CAGE TEAMS IN STATE LOOPS TO PLAY TONIGHT

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Six basketball teams in the Illinois College and Illinois Intercollegiate conference play tonight, but none of the games has a bearing on the title races in the two loops.

The only conference game is between Western State Teachers and Eastern Teachers, but both are already out of the title picture in the Illinois Intercollegiate league.

Eureka plays at Aurora, Chicago Teachers at State Normal and Concordia at Elmhurst in other games tonight in this circuit.

In the Illinois College league the only team active tonight is the powerful Bradley five which engages George Washington at Peoria.

His Future Is In Doubt

Seabiscuit

Los Angeles, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The turf world awaited news today on the condition of Seabiscuit and whether the six-year-old handicap king would ever race again.

The pride and joy of the Charles S. Howard string pulled up lame yesterday after running second to today in a three-horse field that marked 'Biscuit's' first appearance since he thrashed War Admiral back at Pindico last November 1.

The setback was a disappointment in itself, but the resultant injury threw a cloud of gloom over the Howard camp, where hope have been high for a Seabiscuit triumph in the coming $100,000 Santa Anita handicap and the crowning of the noble son of Hard Tack as turfdom's all-time money winning monarch.

Owner Is Worried

Howard and his trainer, Tom Smith, viewed the horse's condition with grave anxiety, but the latter refused to believe Seabiscuit was through running, and said nothing definite could be determined as yet.

Dr. J. H. Peters, a veterinarian called in by Howard, diagnosed

BASEBALL STARS' SONS MISS MARK SET BY FATHERS

New York, Feb. 15.—No son of an acknowledged star has ever attained his father's stature in baseball.

Jim Bagby, Jr., may break the jinx. With the Boston Red Sox last season, he had a better first-year major league record than his illustrious dad.

A fair hitter, Billy Sullivan, Jr., of the St. Louis Browns doesn't approximate his father's ability behind the bat.

Fred (Dixie) Walker, Detroit outfielder, is a son of a ball player, but not a famous one. His father pitched for several years with Washington, but gained his chief distinction from being Walter Johnson's roommate.

Christy Mathewson, Jr., and Ty Cobb, Jr., disclaimed interest in the game entirely.

His father's physical counterpart, young Ed Walsh possessed little of Big Ed's pitching skill. The resemblance of Walter Johnson, Jr., to his father ceased with the fact that both were right-handers.

This spring there will be three marked men on college campuses. Eddie Collins, Jr., and Joe Wood, Jr., have reported for indoor practice with the Yale varsity coached by Joe Wood, Sr.

Young Collins, quite a back in football, was a good outfielder last spring, but scouts hint that he lacks the arm of a major leaguer.

Young Wood is a sophomore with an excellent preparatory school record.

George Sisler, Jr., is Colgate's first string pitcher.

But he is far from becoming the athletic legend his father was at Michigan.

ILLINOIS CENTER REPLACES OHIO'S SCORING FORWARD

Pick Dehner's Team Lags Behind in Standings But Not Scoring

Chicago, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Illinois has faltered in its bid for the Big Ten basketball title, but the team's high-scoring center, Lewis (Pick) Dehner, rolls smoothly on in his quest of individual scoring honors.

Dehner, although stricken last week with tonsillitis, was able to find the basket for 21 points in two games, returning him to first place in the scoring lists after two weeks in second spot.

He replaced Jimmy Hull, Ohio State forward, as the leader. Dehner now has a total of 112 and Hull has 102. The Ohio State sharpshooter gets his chance to pass Dehner Saturday night when the Buckeyes play Iowa after a week's layoff. Dehner does not play again until next Monday.

The only other player within striking distance of this pair is Captain Ben Stephens of Iowa who has 93 points in third place. Stephens plays both Saturday and Monday, against Ohio State and Indiana, respectively, giving him a slim chance to overtake at least one of the first two scorers.

Hapac Holds Fourth

Bill Hapac, Illinois forward, held onto fourth place despite an illness that kept him out of one of his team's two games. He has 84 points, 16 more than Ernie Andre, Indiana guard, in fifth place. This is Andre's first appearance among the first ten, his total of 29 points in his last two games enabling him to climb above the Minnesota mainstays, Gordon Addington and Johnny Kundla, and Michigan's Tom Harmon.

The other newcomer this week is Bill Menke, Indiana guard, with 55 points.

Hull easily retained his distinction of having the highest per game average. The Buckeye star has averaged 14.6 points. Stephens ranks next in this

PEWS DEDICATED
Sunday was a day which will long be remembered by the members of the Presbyterian church and their friends. The morning service was a story service for the newly installed pews. The pastor, Rev. Louis Grafton, Mrs. John Charters of Ashton favored with a beautiful solo which was a special favorite of Mrs. Lahman.

She was accompanied by her husband at the pipe organ. Several years ago both Mr. and Mrs. Charters assisted in the choir work of the local church and their many friends were pleased to hear them again.

Mrs. George Emmert of Chicago presided at the organ for the morning service. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. John Hain, sang an anthem. After the morning service a scramble dinner was enjoyed at noon, followed by the Ladies' Aid society.

About one hundred and fifty were seated at the tables. Following the dinner another service was held during which a number of speeches were made by representatives of the various organizations of the church.

Henry Dierdorff represented the elders; Frank Senger, the trustees; Lewis Myers, the Sunday school; Mrs. Lily Dyer, the Ladies' Aid society; Mrs. Lewis Myers, the Missionary society; Mrs. Holley, the Women's Bible class, Miss Eleanor Young, the young people of the church. The Rev. Gieseler class presented a playlet. Miss Helen Senger presided at the pipe organ during the afternoon service. Several duets were sung.

The installation of the pews was made possible through the generous bequest in the will of the late Mrs. Lois Scott Lahman, in whose memory they were dedicated. Mrs. Lahman's grandson, Maurice Hussey, was at the ceremony at the close of the afternoon service, placed the memory plate on one of the seats.

The floor, which is of hard maple, had been sanded, sealed and waxed, and has the appearance of a newly laid floor. Lee Sidel did the work. With the new floor the Presbyterian church looks like a new church. The members and friends of the church are justly proud of it.

VALUE OF AN AVOCATION
Many persons who find complete satisfaction in their vocation, nevertheless turn to some secondary line of activity which they use as a hobby. Such an activity sometimes called a hobby, may play an important part in a person's life. If the avocation or hobby is a worthy one, it can insure that one will spend his spare time wisely instead of foolishly. If one works eight hours and sleeps eight hours, he has left eight hours of leisure time which he could turn to excellent account. A hobby is a means of enjoying life that these eight hours will be spent in some activity that will keep one out of mischief and help him to live a better life. A hobby through a productive effort, it is an avocation adds to one's physical being, intellect, and income. It serves as a relaxation for the mind. Any person who spends all his time in his daily work is likely to become narrow. With a secondary interest he reaches into two fields instead of one.

It may be the reason for an increase in income for through his hobby he produces things other people want and for which they will pay.

Many a person who has found himself in an unsuitable vocation has chosen for an avocation a field that greatly attracted him, and when his spare time has developed to such an extent that he has been able to shift and make his avocation his vocation. With a good vocation and an interesting avocation you will be well fortified for life.

VALUE OF AN AVOCATION
Many persons who find complete satisfaction in their vocation, nevertheless turn to some secondary line of activity which they use as a hobby. Such an activity sometimes called a hobby, may play an important part in a person's life. If the avocation or hobby is a worthy one, it can insure that one will spend his spare time wisely instead of foolishly. If one works eight hours and sleeps eight hours, he has left eight hours of leisure time which he could turn to excellent account. A hobby is a means of enjoying life that these eight hours will be spent in some activity that will keep one out of mischief and help him to live a better life. A hobby through a productive effort, it is an avocation adds to one's physical being, intellect, and income. It serves as a relaxation for the mind. Any person who spends all his time in his daily work is likely to become narrow. With a secondary interest he reaches into two fields instead of one.

It may be the reason for an increase in income for through his hobby he produces things other people want and for which they will pay.

Many a person who has found himself in an unsuitable vocation has chosen for an avocation a field that greatly attracted him, and when his spare time has developed to such an extent that he has been able to shift and make his avocation his vocation. With a good vocation and an interesting avocation you will be well fortified for life.
